

FOUR KIDNAPERS IN SIONBANK.

Bag of Jewels Picked Up in Front of the Metropolitan Opera House.

POLICEMAN'S LUCKY FIND.

More Than $1,000 Worth of Gems Dropped by Spine Patron of the Theatre.

Roundsman Dougherty, recently detailed for theatre duty to the Thirtieth street police station, made a find last night which together with the snow and the cold made him think he had suddenly been transported to the Klondike. He was on duty at the Metropolitan Opera House at 8:30 o'clock last evening and had taken up his position at the Broadway entrance of the building. As he was reflecting on the relative merits of patrol and theatre duty, his eye fell on a bright red object lying in the snow at some distance from the curbstone. His first impression was that some auctioneer's flag had blown down.

Stopping up to the spot he stooped down and picked up a little snow drift, in which lay a small, round, red object, which, on being opened, proved to contain jewels to a value which would far exceed the roundsman's pay for a year.

The bag, which bore no initials, or other clue to its owner's identity, contained:

One handsome pair of gold and pearl opera glasses, valued at $400.

One three-karat diamond ring, the value of which no one who saw it placed below $400.

FEELING OF BAD GAMING ON THE EAST SIDE.

Secret Service Men Say There Are Perhaps Fifty "Dealers" in That Section.

EIGHT MEN ARE ARRESTED.

All Are Sicilians and It Is Alleged All Belong to One Big Organization.

Chief Hazen, of the United States Secret Service, believes that the capture of the five Sicilian counterfeiter, who were arrested before Commissioner Shields on Monday, will lead to the arrest of several others connected with the same gang. The five Sicilians are much above the class of foreigners usually engaged in working off spurious coin on unsuspecting small tradesmen. They are Alberto Anselmo, Giovanni Chiquenani, Joseph Castelle, Giovanni Pareto and Giovanni Pinna.

Since these were arrested three other arrests have been made by Secret Service men on information obtained by the three hours' examination of the five arrested men. These three have been rounded up for a hearing on next Saturday.

They are brothers, Antonio, Dominick and Michael Gilda, and were arrested by Agents Henry, Brown and Tynell in East Seventy-second street, near Third avenue. These men, according to Chief Hazen, are dealers in counterfeit coin and not "shovers" of it. Of the five arrested men, Chiquenani lived at No. 73 East 73rd street, while Castelle was found at No. 211 East Ninety-seventh street.

Therefore, the evidence is that the five men have been working the East Side. So far only agents of the counterfeiter and the dealers supplied by them have been arrested, but it may be fifty such dealers in the East Side, all belonging to one organized band. Each dealer has a number of "shovers" of his own.

A Secret Service agent said yesterday: "Small shops kept by women, provision stores, saloon keepers and even horse car conductors are the especial marks of the handlers of bad coin."

The extent of the operation of this band of counterfeiters is not known, but the fact that the five Sicilians alone are estimated by the Secret Service agents to have put out about $100,000 annually in bad coin is a sufficient indication of the scale of the operation.

In the raid made at No. 118 Macdougall street, where Chiquenani was arrested Saturday night, five lithographing stones for printing bills were seized, together with a quantity of paper and ink. None of the counterfeit bills have been discovered.

Sergeant Brown, who was sent to prison for five and a half years last April, the Spadito brothers, who received seven-year sentences in Brooklyn, and Salvatore DiMaggio, who got the same sentence in New York, are supposed to have belonged to the same gang as those just arrested.

FAIR ARDSLEY CASINO A TOMB FOR TWO, AFTER A MERRY DANCE.

Henry E. Keyes and His Wife Breathed Gas as They Slept and Both Are Dead.

Had Gone to Their Room After the Jolliest Kind of a Cotillion in a Big Barn.

Dr. Henry Elmo Keyes and his wife, who was Mary Louise Ward, of Bethlehem, Pa., were found dead in their room in the Ardley Casino, at Ardley-on-Hudson, yesterday morning. They had been accidentally asphyxiated by gas, which, it is believed, Dr. Keyes turned on inadvertently on retiring. They had attended a dance in the vicinity on Monday evening, and were quartered at the Casino over night.

Less than two years wed and both under thirty years of age, the young couple were possessed of everything to make their lives drift along in pleasant places. They moved in the best society, were universal favorites, and to add to their enjoyment in existence was a baby girl eight months old. Fond of the amusements of young people, they were figures in fashionable entertainments.

When General Eugene Griffin sent out invitations to a dance in his barn at Dobbs Ferry, Dr. and Mrs. Keyes were glad to be among the guests. They had been living at No. 110 Waverley place, where they started for Dobbs Ferry on Monday afternoon they left their baby in charge of relatives, and promised to be back at New York yesterday morning.

Merriest Kind of a Dance.

General Griffin has a magnificent house and a spacious barn but a short distance away from the Ardley Casino, which is one of the most exclusive clubs along the Hudson. The club was founded by General Samuel Thomas, and numbers among its members many of the railroad millionaires of the city. It was from the Ardley Casino that Dr. Keyes and his wife went to the dance at Dobbs Ferry.

There were about 400 persons at the dance, and alloted it delightful. The do-

After attending a dance at Dobbs Ferry on Monday night, she, with her husband, took a room at the Ardley Casino, which was turned on and both Mr. and Mrs. Keyes were asphyxiated as they slept.

How the Keyes Accidentally Probably Occurred.

The gas and electric light turn-off keys being close together, it is believed that the unfortunate man in shutting off the electric current struck the gas cock with his thumb or fingers and accidentally turned it three-quarters around.

But Little Work for the Coroner.

Coroner Mason arrived late in the afternoon and held an inquest. Dr. E. L. Keyes identified the bodies; the physicians who had been called in told of their efforts at resuscitation; Ellen Horn told of her discovery of the odor of gas, and Charles Murphy told of his last farewell to the unfortunate young people. The jury returned a verdict of death by accident. The bodies were brought to this city.

Mrs. Keyes was the daughter of Captain G. S. Luttrell Ward, U. S. A. She was married to Dr. Keyes in St. Leo's Church, May 20, 1897. Father Prendergast and Father Dwyer officiating. The wedding was a social event.
